

CALL FOR SCORES

The Baltimore Composers Forum is pleased to announce a call for scores for performance at An die Musik in Baltimore, Maryland on Saturday, November 13. Guest artists Megan Ihnen, mezzo-soprano, and Jason Buckwalter, baritone, along with pianist Andrew Stewart will provide an evening of new works for solo voice.

The instrumentation for submitted works must be for one of the following pairings:

- Mezzo-soprano or female narrator; either solo or with piano accompaniment
- Baritone or male narrator; either solo or with piano accompaniment

SUBMISSION DEADLINE

Submissions must be received by Friday, September 10, 2010.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

All submitting composers must be active members of the Baltimore Composers Forum. Persons interested in submitting a proposal are encouraged to check their membership status well in advance of the submission deadline. Please note that any interested composer may submit a membership application along with their score submission.

Submitted works should be between 5 and 8 minutes in length.

Complete submissions include the following:

1. The full performance score
2. A statement permitting use of copyrighted text (if applicable)
3. Program notes (100 word maximum)
4. A brief biography of the composer (200 word maximum)
5. A recording of the work on CD (optional)

Submissions that do not conform to the aforementioned guidelines will not be considered.

Please mail submissions to be received by September 10, 2010 to:

Baltimore Composers Forum
Call for Scores
PO Box 1170, Columbia, MD 21044

Ms. Ihnen and Mr. Buckwalter will select the works to be performed. Special consideration will be given to new and underperformed works. All composers whose work is selected for inclusion on the program will be notified by September 17, 2010. Composers with included works are expected to attend the concert. The Baltimore Composers Forum will not provide travel monies for accepted composers.
